Saigon Bombed

South Gaining at An Loc

SAIGON (AP) — Counterattacking South Vietnamese troops were reported tonight to have recaptured virtually all of the provincial capital of An Loc.

Enemy rockets exploded in a Saigon suburb, killing 15 Vietnamese civilians and wounding 6, bringing the war to the capital for the first time in the current offensive.

Battlefield reports from An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, said government troops were reinforced with 400 paratroops and aided by heavy U.S. B52 strikes in the counterattack that latest reports said had retaken all but two blocks of the city.

Earlier, the Vietnamese high command said the enemy had been forced back outside the city limits after seizing the northern part of the provincial capital in a tank-led assault Thursday.

An unknown number of 100 pound rockets slammed into northern Saigon around Tan Son Nhut airbase. All but one fell off the base into civilian housing. It was here the 15 persons died and at least six others were wounded. There was no reported damage or casualties from the lone rocket that hit inside the big air base.

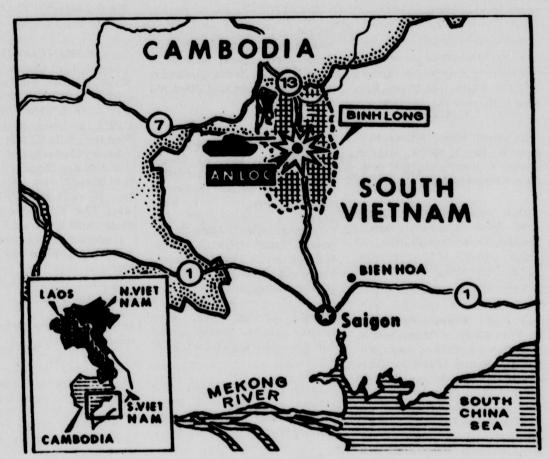

The skies over North Vietnam suddenly cleared today and waves of U. S. jets streaked in for heavy attacks north of the demilitarized zone.

The bombing has been seriously hampered by heavy monsoon clouds restricting attempts to hit enemy troops, tanks and supply columns heading south toward the DMZ. The weather was termed the best yet for American pilots who had resumed bombing the north April 6.

Radio Hanoi claimed six U.S. jets were shot down during the raids. It said at least four North Vietnamese provinces were attacked, giving some idea of the scope of the aerial offensive.

tons of bombs on North Vietnamese troop concentrations a mile west and a mile northeast of An Loc.

Waves of helicopters landed the paratroopers to the southeast. Field reports said they were engaged in light contact with the enemy.

South Vietnamese rangers were reported fighting small groups of North Vietnamese on the eastern edges of the town.

Antiaircraft fire was said to have decreased sharply. The weather was clear, and scores of U.S. fighter-bombers were in of them by air strikes. An official okesman, Col. Le Trung Hien, said 33 North Vietnamese tanks were destroyed, including 18 inside An Loc by South Vietnamese tanks and other antitank weapons. Other reports said 37 enemy armored vehicles were knocked out, including seven

T54 medium tanks, the biggest the North Vietnamese have.

One B52 raid by chance knocked out a North Vietnamese tank attack before it developed, field reports said.

The tanks appeared out of the sunset Thursday, and a U.S. ground observer hurried to call in air and artillery strikes. Just at that moment a flight of B52s arrived high overhead, and the tanks were in the

During the night enemy gunners slammed 50 rockets and mortar rounds into the provincial headquarters in the southern part of the town, killing or wounding about 10 Vietnamese, field reports said.

There was no word of progress from the 20,000-man government relief column which Thursday night was reported stalled by enemy fire 15 miles south of An Loc.

On the northern front below the DMZ, field reports said the South Vietnamese were still holding on to Fire Base Bastogne, 12 miles southwest of Hue, but apparently were running short of water. The base stands in the way of long-range artillery attacks and ground thrusts against Hue. It has been surrounded and under heavy pressure for four days, and supplying it has become a major problem.

Also in the northern sector, enemy gunners shelled Hoi An, a provincial capital 15 miles south of Da Nang, killing five Vietnamese and wounding 14.

In the central highlands, enemy sappers tried to slip through the perimeter of the Dak To airfield but were caught and three were killed.

Two South Vietnamese Skyraiders were shot down Thursday while supporting government troops at Fire Base Charlie. One pilot was killed, the other was rescued.

Charlie was reported still holding out after seven days of siege, but South Vietnamese officers acknowledged the situation there was critical. Because of heavy antiaircraft fire, no helicopters have been able to get in with supplies or carry out scores of wounded.

In southern Cambodia across the border from the southwest part of the Mekong Delta, the second major fight this week was reported at Kompong Trach. The Saigon command claimed 127 North Vietnamese troops were killed in a ninehour battle a mile south of the town. Thirteen South Vietnamese were reported killed and 77 wounded.

The South Vietnamese forces are trying to block the North Vietnamese 1st Division from crossing into the delta, the only region where regular North Vietnamese troops have not been employed in force during the current offensive.

Trudeau and Nixon In Canadian Talks

OTTAWA (AP) — President Nixon and Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau had a low-key summit conference today prior to a rare presidential appearance before Parliament.

There was no immediate report on the conference topics.

The U.S. President goes before a joint parliamentary session today to reaffirm what he terms "the great lesson for all the world to see"-the tradition of settling across-the-border differences without a

Nixon, in Ottawa with his wife for a 40hour official visit, is the first American president to appear before Parliament since John F. Kennedy came to this capital

At a white-tie dinner in his honor at Government House Thursday night, Nixon summed up his approach to U.S.-Canadian relations in a toast:

"Canada and the United States, by their example, can contribute enormously to a new world in which nations can live together in peace, friendship and understanding, maintaining their dignity, maintaining their individuality.

Nixon's public recognition of Canadian individuality was calculated to please his hosts. But summit talks today between Nixon and Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau were not expected to produce agreement on touchy economic issues dividing the two governments.

Canadians have long been bothered by U.S. economic might within their borders. Some are talking about curbing U.S. investments in Canada to guard against domination by foreign firms.

election contests that both Nixon and Trudeau face later this year.

Arriving at Uplands Air Base Thursday night in a chilly and dreary rain, Nixon told several hundred invited greeters: "We respect the separate identity, the right to pursue its own way that the people of Canada desire for their own destiny.'

Canadian officials planned rigorous security for the Nixon visit, mindful of the assault last October on visiting Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. However, security precautions seen as the President motorcaded into Ottawa did not seem heavier than those usually taken in an

Small clumps of Canadians stood on corners, some holding tiny American flags. As the black limousine carrying Nixon and Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener drove through the gates of Government House, about a score of demonstrators shouted and waved signs reading, "Strike for Independence." They were members of the Canadian Liberation Movement, a radical nationalist group protesting against American economic domination.

High Food Price Worries Echoed Throughout U.S.

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

The Terrence Snyder family of Los Angeles used to eat steak twice a week. Now, says Mrs. Snyder, "we have steak once a week. We have more dairy meals, tuna salad, spaghetti, sandwiches and soup. I'm spending the same in the market, but getting less for my money.

Mrs. Snyder's complaint was echoed by women all across the country who were interviewed by The Associated Press early this week as they shopped for meat in large

The AP survey compared prices for three items-pork chops, ground round and porterhouse steak-with the cost of the same meats two years ago.

The comparisons varied widely. In most areas, however, prices were 10 to 50 cents a pound higher this week.

C. Jackson Grayson, chairman of the federal Price Commission, opened hearings Wednesday on rising food prices. "Something's got to be done about this," he said, and reaffirmed his intention "to get prices down." The Labor Department said that wholesale food prices fell 0.3 per cent in March after big jumps in earlier months An Agriculture Department spokesman estimated retail food prices will go up a total of 4 per cent this year and said that more than half that increase already has showed up on grocery store shelves.

In New Orleans, the Canal Villery chain recently was selling pork chops for $1.19 per pound, ground round for $1.19 a pound and porterhouse steak $1.59. Their advertised sale prices at the same time in 1970 were 79 cents for pork chops, 99 cents ground round and $1.25 for

The story is the same in the Boston area. One shopper, who declined to be identified but said she feeds her husband, herself and four children on a school teacher's salary, commented: "Prices have gone up, but my paycheck stays the same. What can I do? I've got to cut back somewhere and meat seems to be the place to do it. Maybe I feed my kids spaghetti or pancakes for dinner and then save the meat for my husband and me. The kids couldn't care less. My husband doesn't realize we've had to scrimp."

At Purity Supreme supermarket in Boston, porterhouse steak was $1.78 per pound, compared to $1.28 two years ago and ground round was $1.19 compared to 98 cents. No comparison was available for pork chops, now selling for $1.09.

In Indianapolis, Marsh Foodliners was charging $1.99 a pound for porterhouse, $1.29 for center cut pork chops and $1.19 for ground round. Ayrway Stores featured porterhouse for $1.85, pork chops for $1.19 and ground round for $1.08. Advertisements from two years ago showed average prices of $1.39 for porterhouse, 99 cents for pork chops and 89 cents for ground round.

WASHINGTON (AP) - An attorney for officials of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. said today it is unfair to criticize his clients for lack of memory on certain events involved in the investigation of Acting Atty. Gen. Richard G.

Phil E. Gilbert, a New York lawyer acting as counsel to ITT witnesses before the Senate Judiciary Committee, said it is difficult for anyone to remember precise facts about events that weren't important to him at the time in the past. "I believe that some of the statements made here are unfair," said Gilbert. "The committee must recognize that John Ryan, the International Telephone Telegraph Corp. official, told the Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday that one of his duties was to watch antitrust matters for the Washington ITT office.

"You tell us you're supposed to be the listening post on antitrust matters," said Kennedy, D-Mass. "We're trying to find out what you've been listening to.

"I must say in response to questions, you have been awful evasive," said Kennedy. "We have heard 'I don't know,' and 'I don't recall' a couple of hundred times,' said Tunney, D.-Calif. "I think you can sense my impatience, and the impatience of the other members, with your answers. It continues to amaze me that you have such a lack of knowledge.

"It occurs to me that there is a possibility that this testimony is something of a smoke screen," said Tunney.

The committee is investigating the nomination of Kleindienst to be attorney general and the Justice Department's relationship with ITT, one of the nation's largest corporations.

Kleindienst asked for the probe after columnist Jack Anderson published a memo purportedly written by ITT lobbyist Dita D. Beard linking the out-of-court settlement of three antitrust suits against ITT with a financial commitment to San-Diego for the Republican National physician, Dr. L.M. Radetsky, said the lobbyist has agreed to have two heart specialists examine her to see if she can travel to Washington to testify.

Board Is Checking Election Procedure

The Sedalia board of education plans to check with state officials Monday to learn if a double set of judges and clerks could be used at each polling place for the May 16 special election on the proposed school tax levy increase.

The reason for requesting the information is that school officials here hope to reach some arrangement which would allow more people to vote. At last Tuesday's school board meeting, the board voted to use only four polling places in the

First Baptist Fleet

Sedalia's First Baptist Church now has a fleet of five buses, one of them a double-deck cruiser which will be used exclusively for long-distance trips. Viewing the vehicles are, from left to right, the Rev. George T. Miller, pastor, and Mr. and Mrs. Grover Mosley, 2408 South Stewart. Mosley is a deacon and serves on the bus committee. Pastor Miller said that on an average 115 persons are transported to the church each Sunday. "We feel there is a definite need for ministering to individuals, especially to children, who do not have the opportunity to come to church unless someone picks them up," he pointed out. The buses were bought with donations from church members, he said.

mer replacement show to the network's winter prime-time schedule are long indeed. But Glen Campbell made it and so did Sonny and Cher. David, who has been prominent as a guest comedian and traveler on the talk-show circuit for several years, has a general idea of what he wants to do with his five programs.

"I'm inclined to believe that the television audience is greatly underrated," he said. "There is no other way to explain the fact that last year's hit will be ext year's program. I believe that people—the audience—are just waiting for something interesting to happen and will jump at it. That's what comedy is, anyway: surprise."

Steinberg, who studied at the Hebrew Theological Seminary in Chicago and has a master's degree in English literature from the University of Chicago; is a quietly satiric raconteur who started his professional career with five years as a mem-ber of the "Second City" company. He has acted in Broadway shows and is a hit in the nightclubs and the concert cir-

The industry, which plays some sort of a game with money, ratings and demographics, seems to think youth is a sort of Phoenix that keeps rising up. I think this group today is apathetic, hedonistic, culturally inept and uninterested in work because it is getting so much attention. It's the younger one-the 9 to 14 kids-who are interesting. Signs that are obsolete, not in good repair or mounted on trees or painted on rocks are not eligible for a permit. Hunter

Continue Countdown Of Apollo

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) -Thirteen months of intense training ends today for the Apollo 16 astronauts, then they'll relax a day before taking off for the moon on Sunday.

John W. Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II plan to spend most of the day in spaceship trainers, rehearsing as they have so many times the critical separation of the two spaceships. descent to the moon, liftoff from the surface and rendezvous and docking.

Young and Duke, who are to become the ninth and 10th Americans to walk on the moon, will be in the lunar module simulator and Mattingly in the command

Apollo 16 crew, which was selected for the mission March 3, 1971.

On Saturday, they'll take the day off for relaxation in their crew quarters. They indicated they probably would spend some of that day reviewing the complex flight plan which is to take Young and Duke to the first landing in the moon's mountainous highlands.

They are to land near the crater Descartes in the highest region on the front side of the moon. Scientists believe this mountainous area was formed by two distinct volcanic events that occurred during the convulsive formation of the moon more than four billion years ago.

If Young and Duke find the volcanic evidence, it will show the moon once had a hot, active interior like the earth. The rocks they collect also might tell scientists why the moon at an early stage lost its heat and became a relatively dead planet.

At the launch pad, the countdown proceeded on schedule toward the planned liftoff of the Saturn 5 rocket at 12:54 p.m. EST Sunday.

Gordon Turner, lead test supervisor. reported there were no problems in the rocket, spacecraft or ground support equipment.

Banks To Boost Rates on Lending

NEW YORK (AP) - Two major New York banks with so-called "floating" prime lending rates said today they will boost their rates from 5 per cent to 51/4 per cent on Monday

The hikes were announced by First National City Bank, the nation's second biggest, and 16th-ranked Irving Trust Co. Most other commercial bank prime rates are at 5 per cent or below. The prime rate is the interest level charged by banks on short-term loans to their best business customers. At most banks, the rate is adjusted administratively and less frequently than at institutions with floating primes. Both Citibank and Irving Trust adjust their prime rates more or less automatically according to various credit market rates. Their rates are subject to weekly change and have been among the most sensitive in the country since the "floating" system was adopted late last

Dr. Marvin Fielding, dean of vocational education at State Fair Community College, said the nursing program at the college has made significant contribution to the nursing staff of Bothwell Hospital and local nursing homes. However, the college needs a wider system of nurses training, such as a two-year associate of science degree program, he said.

"Unfortunately our voters haven't expressed the belief that we (SFCC) need a permanent facility," he said, referring to the failure of a recent bond issue. He said training of health personnel should figure prominently in any discussion on improving health services.

Dr. Fielding said area high schools need to expand vocational education.

On another subject Mr. Albright said that present welfare payments for the elderly are inadequate. "Welfare suffers from a bad image ... we need to change our attitude and get rid of some myths that surround the system and get to the grassroots facts," he said.

Bill Rader, of the University of Missouri Extension Center, pointed out that those from socially and financially disadvantaged backgrounds must not be expected to compete with the rest of society and be successful in a short time. The present productivity-oriented society and the resultant competition is "eliminating a whole chunk of society" from being employed, he said. "You should not expect these people to go from zero to 100 all at once, he said, emphasizing the need for patience and consideration of the "human element" in job training of certain people.

Recreation was another area of concern. 'I think there are many older people who do not have recreational facilities," Mrs. Wilson said. Mr. Albright said children between 6 and 9 in the public housing units do not have recreational facilities and "parents are not going to let their children go to the park."

Troubles Motivated Hijacker

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A Mexican father of eight who hijacked a jetliner. then gave a rambling interview to newsmen as he waved a handgun later found to be empty was described by authorities today as being movitated mostly by personal troubles.

Ricardo Chavez-Ortiz, 37, stressed social injustices suffered by minorities in a long speech broadcast on radio and television Thursday from a Frontier Airlines 737 he hijacked over New Mexico.

But the FBI and other officials said they believed Chavez-Ortiz, who has a history of psychiatric problems, was upset by having been fired from his job as a cook in Los Angeles and by other personal setbacks and was not a racial militant.

Brandishing a .22-caliber pistol, Chavez-Ortiz took over the jetliner shortly after 8 a.m. west of Socorro, N.M., and commanded it for 71/2 hours, including more than five hours at an isolated area of Los Angeles International Airport where he had directed it to land.

His only demands were to "tell my story" on radio and television and to see a specific Los Angeles police artist.

After Chavez-Ortiz let the 27 passengers on the flight which had originated at Minot, N.D., disembark, keeping four crew members aboard, a radio newsman and television newsman and cameraman went aboard and interviewed him for more than two hours. Then he gave up his gun and was taken into custody

Hundreds of FBI agents and other lawmen assembled at the airport made no move to capture the hijacker before his surrender.

Chavez-Ortiz told authorities he came to the United States from Mexico illegally 15

At times during the broadcast, Chavez-Ortiz was despondent, at others cheerful, as he recited a long list of grievances, from unfair landlords to inadequate educational opportunities for his children. He complained of the image presented to WASHINGTON AP) - House subversiveseekers summarized and defended their past year's probes in a 55,000-word report today that a critic claimed contains "thousands of totally unsubstantiated libels."

The House Internal Security Committee claimed credit for publicizing what it termed Communist organizational influence in antiwar demonstrations. "In the future, one has reason to

The dead were caught asleep in tents. Byong said the injured Kim brother, Yae Sup Kim, was inside the camp toilet when the avalanche struck and was pitched 3,500 feet down the mountain. Two Sherpas shoveling snow outside the tents also survived, he added.

The worst previous Himalayan accident occurred on a 1969 expedition. Five Americans and two Sherpas perished in an avalanche while attempting to climb the 26,810-foot Mt. Dhaulagiri.

'Godfather' Production Called Strain

By PEACE MOFFAT AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Al Rud-

dy-know the name? Chances are you don't. He's a film producer, and producers don't have their faces flashed. across those big screens. And besides, his first effort was something called "Beast With 1,000,000 Eyes" and two of his recent films, "Little Fauss and Big Halsy" and "Making It," haven't exactly been the talk of the film world.

But chances are you'll be hearing about Ruddy soon, since his latest film has been much in the news. Marlon Brando plays the title role in it, that of a Mafia don, and getting the film made proved to be more of a problem than the easy-going Ruddy had expected. In fact, Ruddy admits producing "The Godfather" was something of a straincomplete with threatening letters and telephone calls. In a candle-lit west side restaurant here, the lanky Ruddy settled down at a corner table. sipped a glass of white wine and talked about the making of "The Godfather."

"It was still a big property when Paramount gave it to me," he says. "But the book was about to go off the bestseller list. The studio just wanted to knock it out. They thought Al Ruddy will do the film cheap; he won't let it get out of

The "cheap" idea was dispelled, he says, when he and director Francis Coppola convinced Paramount's studio head Bob Evans that Brando was the only actor right for the part of Don Vito Corleone.

"When Francis and I decided on Brando, we had to take on Paramount," Ruddy says. "They thought we were like

"Brando was in love with the part," Ruddy says. "He was the first role we cast. We felt we needed an actor with such a presence you felt him even when he wasn't on the screen. What other actor has that pow-Besides cost, there were other unanticipated problems. "As we got into the film, it turned into a very hot potato," Ruddy says. "Certain people just did not want the film made. Paramount and Gulf and Western were bombarded by letters from congressmen and public leaders expressing concern that nothing should be done that could in any way defame the Italian-American community. Then I had that famous press conference and I thought it was all over for me.

That press conference was about Ruddy's meeting with members of the Italian-American Civil Rights League when he pledged not to mention the words "Mafia" or "Cosa Nostra" in the film.

"It looked as if we had emasculated the book and knuckled under to pressure groups," Ruddy says. "I will tell you I was stunned by that reaction. When I met with the league I made what I thought were minor concessions. There was no formal, written agreement, just my word. On the basis of that, the league helped me. I delivered for them, they delivered community cooperation for me, and we all came off better for it."

What does a producer do after making a film like "The Godfather?" If he's Ruddy, he just might make a sequel to it. "People in this business are people that have to take a beating," Ruddy says, half-smiling. "What other people could go in a room, get kicked in the head, then pick themselves up and go somewhere else to get kicked all over again. But I really fell in love with the business. It's the only thing I ever felt I really liked.'

By FRANK CREPEAU Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) - When the first flakes of snow whiten the ground in Moscow a civilian army attacks with everything from twig brooms to echelons of snowplows parading down the broad avenues.

No city as big as this metropolis of seven million people gets as much snow, and no city in the world works so hard to dispose of it.

In contrast to some other public services in this communist capital, snow removal is well organized and highly efficient. When snow begins, thousands of "dvorniki" the corps of workers who clean courtyards and sidewalks-mobilize their brooms and shovels. The rhythmic rattle of twig brooms and the scrape, scrape, scrape of shovels can be heard far into the night if the snow holds out. They work quickly to get the

Moscow. Moscow won't tolerate a snowfall crippling the city as sometimes happens in New York City, for example. City government edicts specify that an inch of snow must be removed from major streets in 24 hours. The time is extended for major storms, but the streets must be kept open in downtown

Moscow That means work round the clock. Lifshitz, a tall, blackbrowed man who has been fighting snow for 20 years, said and if snow depth reaches one that from Nov. 1 to April 15 inch, hundreds of snow plows 'we have about 1,300 machines on duty day and night."

When heavy snow falls, the waiting plows, trucks and loading machines are dispatched from 31 headquarters in the city. Once the snow is pushed to the sides of the streets, fleets He said it can snow in Mosof dump trucks move in and cow from the beginning of Ocmachines with crablike claws last 10 years the city has aver- scoop up snow and convey it to aged nearly five feet of snow a the trucks.

> "In a difficult situation we use about 2,500 trucks," Lifshitz

The trucks, plying meticulously planned routes, dump most of the snow in the Moscow River from special ramps. At the ramps there are pairs of big rotors agitating the water to break up the snow and start it moving sluggishly down the river and out of town.

If the river freezes or becomes clogged with snow, icebreaker ships move in to keep the channel open.

Snow clearance is a vast enterprise in Moscow. Lifshitz said the entire operation involves 8,000 persons and costs between 10 million and 12 million rubles per winter. That's $12 million to $14.4 million at the official exchange rate.

And that's not counting the thousands of dvorniki who are assigned to buildings and apartment blocks in the city.

Corporations Reporting Profits Despite Freeze

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - As the country fights to keep a lid on wage and price increases, some of the nation's biggest corporations are reporting tremendous first-quarter profit gains over a year earlier.

While the reports make great news for shareholders attending annual meetings, which reach a peak this month, they are causing concern in Washington and anger among union leaders.

Already the Cost of Living Council has ordered some companies to roll back prices. And it has found in a review of 105 corporate reports that 20 per cent of them indicated unacceptably high profits. In quitting the Pay Board last month, George Meany, AFL-CIO president, claimed that "profits have begun to sky-rocket." And now, lending credence to his charge, profit gains of 30 and 40 per cent are

In the past few days, for example, the following companies were among those reporting big percentage gains:

Du Pont 32, Honeywell 60,
IBM 22, Westinghouse Electric
27, Polaroid 17, Allied Chemical 19, St. Regis Paper 64, Kimberly-Clark 35, Howard Johnson 44, Consolidated Paper 55, United Aircraft 50, International Paper

These companies are hardly typical. Most companies are reporting smaller gains and, as always, some companies are in the red. And some have not yet reported. But the impression at this point is that profits are surging.

In defense of the big gains, industrialists argue that one cannot ignore the special nature of the present figures. A analysis indicates, literally, larger perspective must be taken, they say.

The current figures are high only in a relative sense, they say, pointing to the fact that last year's first-quarter profits were nothing to crow about since the nation still was suffering some effects of the reces-

A study of 4,900 corporations by the First National City Bank found that profits last year rose 13 per cent and commented: "For a comeback, it was not much of a comeback." Profit margins in 1970, it said, were the worst since World War II.

In its Monthly Economic Letter for April, it claims that 'the current recovery in corporate earnings stalled in mid-1971. Since then," it adds, "after-tax profits have not risen appreciably

First City claims "a downward trend in profits has persisted since the middle of 1966: earnings never recovered from the minirecession of 1966-1967 and plunged deeper still in 1969-

While the big gains being reported by outstanding companies may not indicate conditions for many thousands of other companies, they definitely suggest that a watershed may have been crossed.

Argus Research, which suplies some of the most widely followed research in the business and investment communities, comments that " ... our

there is tremendous room for profits growth in the economy over the next several years."

It cites two fundamental reasons for the improved outlook: interest payments lower than had been anticipated, and the likelihood that productivity growth, long mired, will become unstuck.

And it foresees the likelihood that profits in 1973 and 1974 will be strong, as margins return to "more normal" levels. All this, it concludes, will create problems for the Pay Board and Price Commission and it foresees a lot of "noise" from Washington, but it adds: We do not believe that controls will seriously impair those economic forces that are working to bring about gains in prof-

And First City finishes its critique of profits by offering to Meany the advice of an illustrious predecessor, Samuel Gompers, the great union leader of another year, who said:

'The worst crime against working people is a company that fails to make a profit."

Maybe so. But as the old vaudevillian said: "It ain't what you say or even how you say it. Timing's the thing that wins the audience." Industry might have attracted the audience but it's not likely to have won it.

Highway 13 Isn't Just Interesting— It's Just Dangerous

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

AP Special Correspondent CHON THANH, Vietnam (AP) - "What's wrong with this girl?" asked Capt. Mike McDermott, holding up a Stars & Stripes that showed Raquel Welch in fulsome cleavage at the Academy Awards ceremo-

He was hard to hear over the blam-blam of howitzers firing at an enemy machine gun somewhere nearby in the jungle scrubs.

'Ain't nothing wrong with that girl," answered the major advising the ARVN-Army of the Republic of Vietnam-artillery. "Nothing at all."

"Good," said the captain, raising his voice to contend with a helicopter whirling down to take out some wounded. "Then there's nothing wrong with me. So far.

McDermott, from Highmore. S.D., squatted at a field telephone in the corrugated sewer pipe serving as the front line command post on Highway 13. Vietnam's Thunder Road.

A four-year man in the Nam. having extended twice on previous tours with the 101st Airborne, the captain took issue with a visitor who called Highway 13 "interesting. "That's rear echelon talk," he corrected between telephone squawks telling why he couldn't get more air strikes and what had become of the water he ordered yesterday for his men. "It's not interesting. It's dangerous. Goddam dangerous."

He found no argument in this quarter. On the drive up from Saigon this reporter and two other AP men hit the floorboards when a B40 rocket tried to zero in on our hired car and an AK47 rifle pop-popped from only a few hundred vards

Only a few miles back, Route 13 had been a happy chaos of three-wheel taxicabs, oxcarts, droning motor bikes, overcrowded provincial buses, mobile noodle restaurants, and women in conical hats at roadside markets.

Now the wide road through the rubber plantations and stretches of scrub jungle was empty and menacing except for an occasional lumbering armored column. Asia's teeming tide of life recedes and vanishes in the path of advancing rubber trees look shady and cool and peaceful. They're not. They meet war's specifications for slaughter: Splendid cover against planes, perfect protection for ambushers crouched behind the trees to fire down the long straight rows at the exposed highway. Here in 1964 and '65, ARVN regiments were massacred in slaughterhouse scenes of running blood and dripping latex. Then the U.S. 1st Division, the Big Red One, arrived in July 1965, and staked out the rubber plantation country and the surrounding scrubby jungles of War Zones C and D as its own Charlie-hunting preserve.

The Big Red One had a howitzer named Bau Bang and another named Ben Cat, both firing into the jungles in those directions. Pacificiation in these

The 1st Division built an orphanage at Ben Cat in honor of Sgt. Arthur McMellon, a mess cook who was kind to kids and bought the farm one day in a mine blast under his Jeep on Thunder Road.

The division went home two years ago and the orphanage... like its base camps, was Vietnamized. The sergeant's name was obliterated. Now, in the renewed fighting, it's been abandoned. Except for an occasional helmet out in the bush or rusting tins of C-rations, time and the jungles have all but wiped out the American presence.

There were days of hope and high promise on Route 13 over the years. In the Spring of 1967 the Big Red One cleared the road all the way to the border. and the first big convoy of rubber moved down to the Saigon docks from the Terre Rouge plantation. The day before, a shower of rockets killed four men and injured a dozen at Fire Base No Name. Another burst came in today, but the camp's busy bulldozer had built the bunkers up higher.

After the rocket barrage, a helicopter came in to take out a North Vietnamese captured two days before. His head and arms were swathed in bandages, and his ankles were in handcuffs. With him went an ARVN soldier, crying softly under a hood of bloodied bandages. At the cross roads in Ben Cat, a war veteran came crawling across the macadam on stumps of knees and knobs of elbows, his beggar's bowl pinned to the shirt of his faded

ARVN fatigues. Just up ahead a sign said: "This is the Road to Peace, 208th Engineers.'

DEAR POLLY - I am answering Catherine who has holes in her "wet look" coat caused by the buttons pulling off. She could cut swatches of an adhesive-backed leather-like mending tape. If the linig is loose, open it up from bottom. and attach the tape piece on the inside - otherwise put one on the inside and one on the outside to have a new surface for attaching the buttons. Use strong thread for sewing them on and put a smaller button on the inside, sewn at the same time the outer one is sewn on. The stitches will not pull out so easily as the inside button equalizes the strain. - MRS. L.

DEAR POLLY — Catherine's problem with the buttons on her "wet look" coat may be solved if she uses felt or iron-on patches as a backing on both sides and then sews the buttons on with either dental floss or nylon fishing line. Both are excellent for sewing on coat buttons especially when there is an energetic man around the house. - KAREN

DEAR POLLY - Catherine could hide the holes in her "wet look" coat that were caused by buttons pulling off by cutting round patches out of contrasting color and sewing them on by machine so the holes are covered. A button is then sewed in the center of each of these circles which will look like a trim. If the coat is red or blue, add a white patch and then sew on the button and the effect will be that of big polka dots when the coat is worn. — GLADYS

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY - The nylon net curtains I made for my kitchen were beautiful until they were washed and became a mess of wrinkles. I tried everything I could think of hanging them on the rod while dripping wet and ironing them several times while wet and also while dry. I do hope someone can help me get rid of these wrinkles. - EMMA

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is that sales pitch about certain garments saying "One size fits all." Hardly true unless the item happens to be a handkerchief. — LILLIAN

DEAR POLLY — One of the girls wanted to know how to "paper" a wall with fabric. Since my husband has done this frequently I asked him for the facts.

The wall should be smooth, either sheet rock or plywood, etc., and then a sealer brushed on. A waterless vinyl paste is put, smoothly and evenly, on the wall but not too thickly. When using very wide soft material, he lapped the edges, put a straight edge through the center of the lap and with a razor blade cut down through both thicknesses, lifted out the excess material, put the edges back down and smoothed them out. When using heavier material the edges can be butted without that procedure. Walls of this type can be shampooed carefully with a foam cleaner and I do mean carefully or you might loosen the fabric from the wall. Regular vacuuming will keep it clean longer. — DOT

DEAR GIRLS - My own method for doing this may seem a bit unorthodox to professionals but I have done it on both plastered and papered walls with the greatest of ease. I use wheat paste mixed to a thicker consistency than for paper. With a wide brush, cover the wall area that one width of fabric will cover and then smooth the fabric on to the paste wet wall. I use a clean cloth for the smoothing and if any paste spots appear they can be wiped off while still damp with another wet cloth. The biggest job is cutting the fabric so patterns will match all around the room. I do all the cutting first and leave at least one-inch allowance at both top and bottom (to allow for any unevenness in construction). After the fabric strip is in place, run along the edges at ceiling line and at top of the baseboard with a nail file or similar object, pull gently away from the wall for a few inches up or down and cut along the indented line with scissors and then smooth back in place. - POLLY

Dear Dr. Lamb - In our health class we came upon a question that our teacher was not sure of, so a group of us girls thought it would be a good idea to ask you the same question. When does a girl have the least chance of getting pregnant? We would appreciate it if you would answer this in one of your future columns. Dear Reader - Your phrase 'the least chance' is a good term because there is always the chance that a girl can get pregnant. There is some debate about whether ovulation can occur during actual menstruation, but since it does occur then in animals a number of authorities think it is possible for a woman to ovulate at this

In the normal cycle of events, there are about 28 days between the onset of periods, although this varies a great deal. The egg or ovum is released about 14 days before the onset of the period. This means it occurs midway between the periods and this is the time a person is most likely to get pregnant.

However, women are noted for being irregular and this is particularly true for young girls when all of these complex mechanisms are first beginning to function. When the ovum is first released, it is called ovulation and if it meets with a sperm cell a pregnancy begins. The fertilized ovum nestles down in the special tissue which lines the womb. In the preceding two weeks this tissue has grown quite a bit to provide an adequate nest for the fertilized ovum. If it implants and starts growing a pregnancy

When the ovum is not fertilized or does not embed then the extra tissue which nature has built up for the pregnancy is discarded. This dismantling process occurs about two ovulation. Then it is rebuilt some other time, if enough inagain and gets ready for the terest is shown in their subject.

next ovulation which should occur midway between the

The rhythm method of birth control relies on the fact that ovulation occurs approximately 14 days before the onset of the period, in a woman who is regular. If this period can be identified it is known that she is most likely to get pregnant at this time, give or take a few days before or after the 14 day midpoint. If she is absolutely regular (which doesn't happen very often) by avoiding intercourse during these periods of time, pregnancy can be avoided, but I would like to emphasize to you again that there is no time that anyone is completely safe from getting pregnant. This is why so many other methods of birth control have been developed. The best, surest way to prevent an unwanted pregnancy is not to engage in any activity that can result in this unfortunate event. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Over it all, not the smell of gunpowder but the fetid odor of the Saigon canals hanging in the humid air.

Further into the city, the hot pavement became cooler treelined boulevards where pretty girls in silken white dresses waited at traffic intersections. The glass-walled coffee shops of Tu Do Street revealed the blandly contented faces of relaxed men at ease.

Missouri Weather Is Severe

Severe weather revisited the southwest corner of Missouri Thursday night and brought confirmed funnel cloud sight-

The National Weather Bureau reported the storm system moved into the southern portion of Missouri from Kansas with funnels reported seen near Galena and Baxter Springs, Kan., and then near Seneca, Neosho, Joplin and Lebanon, Mo. A tornado was reported to have touched down in open country about three miles southwest of Joplin.

The storm brought hail, described as tennis and baseball size, at Joplin, Camdenton and other communities in the Lake of the Ozarks area. Marble size hail was also reported in the Cape Girardeau area.

The only damage reported in the storm Thursday night was a mobile home on highway 54 three miles east of Camdenton overturned by the wind. The trailer was unoccupied.

As the storm system continued its eastward travel is abated from its tornado-spawning turbulence to a fast-moving thunderstorm-producing front.

The Thursday night storm system was unlike that of Wednesday night. A severe windstorm Wednesday night hit southwest Missouri which overturned eight house trailers and damaged 25 residences in Cassville, injured a Cassville, woman, and blew down for the second time within four months the Assembly of God Church in Republic, Mo.

Price Hike Repetition Not Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) - Virginia H. Knauer, President Nixon's adviser on consumer affairs, thinks "we can be confident that there will be no repetition of the steep rise in food prices that we experienced earlier this year.

McGovern Seeking Support

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A grass roots campaign approach that worked in Kansas for Sen. George McGovern is being used now in Missouri to line up support at next week's Democratic ward, township and county meetings

Supporters of McGovern's presidential bid in St. Louis, Kansas City and other points in the state have been on the telephone for the past few weeks encouraging people to attend the Democratic meetings and support the South Dakota sena-

At stake in the meetings next Tuesday are the delegates who will be selected to attend congressional district caucuses. Three-fourths of Missouri's 73 presidential delegates will be chosen at the caucuses. The others will be chosen at the June 10 state convention, which will be controlled by delegates selected at the local meetings Tuesday night.

R. Scott Lilly, of McGovern's Washington office, said in St. Louis this week that telephone canvassers have received commitments from "probably 1,000 McGovern supporters" in St. Louis County to attend the

The tactic worked in Kansas, where McGovern won a clear majority in two of the five districts and possible majorities in two others.

Lilly said the approach may not work in Missouri as well because after using it in Kansas "it made the regular organization more aware that we're here and that we're active.'

"There's a feeling in Missouri, and in other parts of the country, that the purpose of these party caucuses is to reward the year-after-year regular party workers. Our feeling is that they are to give Democrats an opportunity to express their opinions." Lilly said.

Aiming at Television Control

By MARGARET GENTRY Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Justice Department says it will file suit aimed at breaking up network control over television entertainment programming. The action would rank as one of the government's strongest attacks on prime-time TV

The department said the civil suits will accuse the Columbia Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Co., American Broadcasting Co. and a related firm with violating antitrust

But Justice officials refused to discuss ramifications of the suit or to disclose the alternative they prefer.

CBS and ABC denounced the move: NBC officials would not First word of the government plan came from CBS Thursday. The Justice Department then confirmed only that suits against the networks and Viacom International Inc. will be filed in a few days. Viacom, a one-time CBS subsidiary, now operates independent cable-television and syndicated-program

The government intention seems unlikely to have an immediate effect on the programs beamed into millions of homes because of the anticipated lengthy route to a final court settlement.

The Justice Department said the civil antitrust suits will charge that the networks "have monopolized and restrained trade in prime-time television entertainment programs.

Wood said the government aims to prevent the networks "from producing any television entertainment programs or feature films" and turn them into "mere conduits" for independently produced programs.

He said the government apparently wants to hand the program-production role to advertising agencies and motion-picture producers.

We will refuse to acquiesce in the Justice Department demands, which we believe have no merit legally or otherwise." Wood wrote CBS-affiliated stations in a letter made public Thursday

An ABC spokesman said the network's position is that the government's intention "is without merit, and we can beat it in the courts.

The CBS chief accused the Justice Department of undermining the regulatory powers of the Federal Communications Commission, which in 1970 forced the networks to limit prime-time programming to three hours a night, instead of the 31/2 hours customary before

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Final arguments in the Frontier Hotel hidden ownership trial have begun after U.S. District Court Judge David W. Williams denied all defense motions for acquittal.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Thomas Kotoske told the court Thursday that two of the defendants. Anthony Joseph Zerilli and Michael Santo Polizzi of Detroit. had been wanting to get into Las Vegas, Nev., casino business since the early 1960s.

To do so, he added, they employed "good old-fashioned Chicago-type extortion.

The Frontier Hotel is in Las Vegas.

Also on trial are former Judge Arthur J. Rooks, Jack Shapiro and Peter Bellanca, all of Detroit, reputed St. Louis gang boss Anthony Giardano and the Emprise Corp., a Buffalo, N.Y., holding company.

Crews for all of the scheduled space missions have already been selected, but Young believes his country will not abandon manned spaceflight after all it has done.

"It's inconceivable to me that we're going to be technological copouts," he says.

John Young was born in San Francisco, but raised in Orlando. Fla., and considers the smaller town home.

He was an outstanding student and athlete in high school and, like many of the astro-

Young majored in aeronautical engineering at Georgia Institute of Technology and also enlisted in the Navy ROTC. He went right into the Navy after graduation in 1952 and within seven years was a Navy test pi-

In 1962. Young set two world records which still stand for 'scrambling" an interceptor jet. He set the first by roaring from a standstill on a runway to an altitude of 9,280 feet in 34 seconds aboard a Phantom jet fighter. The second record was for an altitude of 80,000 feet.

The Navy pilot became an astronaut in 1962 and has since contributed as much to the lore and legend of the space corps as he has to the technology of flying in space.

Young hides a first-class mind behind a folksy facade of dry wit, mildly mangled grammar and a deadpan delivery. The astronaut takes a simple, direct approach to engineering problems which occasionally has made the complex studies used by most engineers appear a little silly.

One example concerns the problem of shaving in space. For years engineers spent thousands of dollars on various shaving devices which would not only cut the beard but sweep up the cut whiskers and keep them from floating around in the spacecraft.

On Apollo 10, Young solved the whole problem with a safety razor, some thick lather and a tissue. He theorized that the lather would hold the cut whiskers, and the lather could then be blotted up with the tissue. He was right.

Young will be at the controls of the Apollo 16 lunar module for man's fifth landing on the moon. With him will be Charles M. Duke Jr. The command module pilot on the mission is Thomas K. Mattingly II who will remain in lunar orbit aboard the command ship. Both Mattingly and Duke are space

The active seismic device will measure shocks created by a thumper operated by the astronauts and by four mortar shells which will be set off by a radio ground command one to two months after the mission.

Experiments to be conducted by the astronauts while they are on the moon include a portable magnetometer, a solar wind composition experiment, a cosmic ray detector and a far UV camera spectroscope. The UV (for ultraviolet) cam-will drive a battery-powered car to selected sites to collect rocks, soil and core samples. Just so the astronauts will not get bored, there are experiments they will perform between Earth and the moon.

Tax Reform Utopia Is Never Achieved

this election year of continuing inflation, at least in the air being set in motion by the small army of Democratic senators stumping the presidential primaries.

Never mind that Congress passed a major tax reform bill in 1969 and has made significant changes every year since then. The tax system can always stand reform, and most especially right after a so-called reform has been instituted.

For the reason is this: The tax system (and speaking of air) is like nothing so much as a big, misshapen balloon. Push against one part of it and it sticks out somewhere else. Try to round out one protuberance and another one pops out on the other side.

For instance, there's a bill in the House to remove the tax exemption for income from municipal bonds, a loophole which enables many a fat cat to escape federal tax.

But a companion part of the bill calls for an offsetting federal subsidy to state and local governments to help them keep Tax reform is in the air again in their bond offerings attractive to investors. Where would this subsidy come from if not from tax dollars from other sources?

> Likewise, there are bills to end the notorious oil and minerals depletion allowances. But again, some other incentive-paid for with tax revenue—would have to be offered to encourage exploration.

> Every single American who files a tax return has at least one personal "loophole"—a emption, and an exemption for every dependent he may have. Homeowners are subsidized by other taxpayers to the tune of billions by being able to deduct their mortgage interest and property taxes.

> In fact, so extensive are the loopholes for individuals that Tom Stanton, director of the Tax Reform Research Group, a Naderite organization, estimates that if they were all eliminated, tax rates could be reduced across the board by 43 per cent, with the added bonus of vastly simplifying tax returns.

'Conspiracy' Trials: New Witch Hunts

WASHINGTON - So you think Ku Klux Klansmen murdered civil rights workers. but you can't prove it?

Then you simply charge them with "conspiracy" to commit murder, produce an informer who says he heard talk of such a crime, and put them away for a few

Easy deal. For who gives a hoot about Klansmen, except other Klansmen and their relatives?

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover goes before the Senate Appropriations subcommittee with his annual tale of FBI derring-do to justify more money and more agents. This time he tells how the FBI has uncovered "an anarchist group (of) Catholic priests and nuns, teachers, students and former students" who were "concocting a sheme" to kidnap Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger and to "disrupt government operations" by blowing up underground pipes and electrical conduits in federal buildings.

The perpetrators of this dastardly 'conspiracy," according to Hoover, were

Father Philip Berrigan, Sister Elizabeth McAlister and five others who were to become known as the "Harrisburg 7."

When a storm of protest arose over the FBI director's declaring people guilty of crimes for which they had not even been indicted, the Justice Department sped into action to take Hoover off the hook.

Since the priests and nuns obviously had not COMMITTED an act of kidnapping, or bombing buildings, there was just one way to get them: try them for conspiracy, of

And why shouldn't this gambit succeed? Who could be viewed more as traitors by conservative Americans than these radical priests and nuns? Hadn't the Catholic Church been protector and defender of the established order, the status quo, for generations - and didn't that make the Berrigan group Judases of the worst kind?

A Roman Catholic priest who says "we desperately need revolution" is sure to be regarded as a menace by a majority of

So, a couple of months after Hoover declared the Berrigan group guilty, a federal grand jury indicted the seven for a kidnapping-bombing conspiracy.

Conspiracy law is about the nicest thing that ever happened to prosecutors, because it spares them the inconvenience of having to prove that the defendant actually did some foul deed. But in the Berrigan case the Justice Department soon concluded that even with this advantage its case was too weak. So it squeezed a new indictment out of the jury accusing the seven of a conspiracy to vandalize draft boards in several cities.

To try to prove these conspiracies, the FBI trotted out its star paid informer. Boyd F. Douglas Jr., a convicted confidence man whose criminal career had begun in 1958 when as a high school sophomore he was passing bad checks. By his own testimony Douglas was a liar who would hustle a nickel off a dead man's eye.

Unpopular as the Berrigan group might be, this conspiracy case was a bit too much for the jury. It wound up hung, with 10 of the 12 insisting upon acquittal.

Perhaps the government will not waste money trying the case again. But that is not the last we'll hear of "conspiracy" trials. They have been used to convict businessmen of price-fixing, to throw union organizers into jail, to stifle groups deemed a threat to the established order.

But in recent years the mass conspiracy trial has become a political instrument. It is the radical, the political dissenter, the outspoken opponent of governmental policies, that is usually the target of this kind of prosecution. Americans permit this menace to grow because it is usually a "troublemaker" like Father Berrigan, Dr. Benjamin Spock, or Abbie Hoffman whom the authorities want

It's about time Americans awakened to the fact that "conspiracy" is an overworked tool and a threat to the fundamental liberties of all of us. The easiest thing in the world is to accuse an unpopular group of a "plot," and in a tense era when millions of people feel one kind of paranoia or another, it is not too difficult to get a jury to believe it.

But the lesson of the Berrigan case is that the Justice Department, and especially the FBI, must remain acutely aware of the difference between prosecution and persecution. The more government pushes absurd "conspiracy" cases, the more people will agree with Father Berrigan that "the Americans who need (revolution) most from the point of spiritual survival are the ones who are now exercising power."

Kremlin Will Foot The Bill For Fidel

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - The Kremlin has asked Cuban dictator Fidel Castro "to try to regain control over Latin American revolutionary movements" and has promised "to pay all the costs involved."

This is the secret finding of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), which has put together the jigsaw pieces from its agents in Europe and South America

In an earlier column, we reported that Castro had moved his Latin American liberation center from his embassy in Paris to his embassy in Santiago, Chile. His ambition, according to the CIA, is to stir up

"revolution everywhere in Latin America. This clandestine operation, says the CIA, will be financed by the Soviets.

Citing information that came indirectly from Cuban intelligence officer Enrique Benavides Santos in Paris, the CIA reports:

"Benavides said that through Cuba, the Soviets will support armed revolution or political struggle, whichever was deemed appropriate in given countries throughout Latin America

"According to Benavides, the Soviets have told Cuba they will 'pay for everything' in helping all revolutionary groups, even Catholic radical groups.

"Benavides strongly emphasized that Cuba has not changed its line but still favors armed revolution everywhere in Latin America.

The new libertaion center in Santiago. says the CIA, "will receive Soviet funds via Cuba and play a large role in the new Soviet-Cuban strategy for Latin America.

The tableau is repeated time minor: public drunkenness, disorderly conduct, breach of the peace. The legal guilt of the accused is seldom in doubt. So police court judges, overworked by huge dockets, grind through their day's work. ... Are you guilty? "Yes." "Ten dollars or 10 days. Next case." It doesn't have to be this way, Judge James G. Amato contends. And he is out to "A lot of these people aren't criminals and you shouldn't have to treat their cases like criminal cases," he said. "If you do, a lot of the time the punishment just puts them farther in the hole, makes it that much harder for them to straighten themselves out," he added.

"For some, even a small fine or a couple of days in jail can ruin their lives. A man can lose his job over it. Or the fine might be the grocery money for the week," Amato said.

Instead, Amato proposes dividing his municipal court into several categories for better efficiency and to separate criminal types from noncriminal

Shooters By Earl

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP) Now the quiet man from the big corporations can mingle with the dukes and cabinet ministers at that most exclusive sport of all-grouse shooting on Scottish moors.

The Earl of Seafield, whose 150,000 acre estate includes some of the best shooting in Scotland, is offering business men from Europe, the United States and Japan shooting holidays at up to $2,080 for five

The earl is the Laird of Cullen House, Banffshire, and his paying guests will stay at old Cullen, a modernized Georgian-colonial period-mansion

It can keep up to 16 people in the luxury provided by cuisine and service described by the laird as "some of the best obtainable in Europe.'

The earl's basic charge for a six day stay is $800, but five days of grouse or pheasant shooting boosts the cost to between $1,200 to $2,000.

Other activities available to guests on the estate are deer stalking and trout and salmon fishing.

Seafield Estates—the name of the company formed by the earl to provide these goodies for the discerning businessman-says in its brochure "this visit will not be cheap because what we are offering is exclusive and cannot be found elsewhere." But to make the package even more worthwhile, the guests will be offered a cocktail and dinner party with a real live English lord and lady— Lord and Lady Seafield to be precise—and wine and spirits before and during meals.

Acting Schools Gain Strength

By WILLIAM GLOVER AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - In union there is strength—at least the League of Professional Theater Training Programs hopes so.

"We've been growing so fast, we suddenly realized we don't know anything about each other," says J. Michael Miller, a cool academic activist who is president of this latest intercollegiate alliance. 'Now the time has come for

The league represents drama departments of 11 institutions which accentuate that word professional, a shift from the concept still prevalent in many universities that the main purpose of theatrical studies is to culvitate aesthetic taste.

"Our programs are committed to the conservatory training methods so notably successful in other countries,

Miller says. "Most of this activity has been during the past decade," he reports. "We've all been trying to develop a national style and service, but aren't really sure how far we've progressed."

The new concentration on training actors and technicians for the competitive challenges of commercial stagecraft and professional regional endeavor hasn't gone forward without casualties.

Of 15 "substantial programs" begun since the early '60, Miller says, "six have collapsed or been compromised beyond rec-ognition by lack of funds or hostile environment." Avoidance of any further attrition is an implicit league objective.

Even now, says Miller, several of his founding members are facing survival problems. Seven of the participants set up their programs during the

Strike Ends; Teams Open Play Saturday

By HERSCHEL Nissenson Associated Press Sports Writer

A shortened baseball season will finally get under way 11 days late Saturday, but before the first pitch is thrown the sport has two losers and a count of one strike

The first general walkout in the history of the so-called national pastime ended Thursday on two fronts-in Chicago, where major league club owners voted to pick up the season beginning Saturday and cancel all games called off by the strike, and in New York, where the player representatives agreed.

The pennant races thus will be decided on a percentage basis. since not all teams will play the same number of games. Technically, the races always are decided on percentage, but games affecting the final standings usually are made up.

In the American League East, Baltimore has 154 games remaining. Boston and New York 155 and Cleveland, Detroit and Milwaukee 156. In the AL West, Chicago, Kansas City, Minnesota and Texas will play 154 games, California and Oak-

Chicago and Pittsburgh in the National League East show 155 games left while Montreal, New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis have 156. In the NL West, Houston and San Diego have 153, Atlanta and Cincinnati 154 and Los Angeles and San Fran-

All 24 teams will lose at least one home game.

The only dispute still remaining—until the year-end negotiations between players and owners on a new basic agreementinvolves Kansas City and Chicago in the AL West. Ewing Kauffman, owner of the Royals, says he will protest any games his club has to play against Chicago this weekend because the White Sox disregarded a league directive and allowed their players to work out in White Sox Park during the strike.

Saturday's opening day schedule looks like this:

American League-Minnesota at Oakland, Texas at California (night), Chicago at Kansas City, Boston at Detroit, Milwaukee at Cleveland. New York at Baltimore.

National League-Pittsburgh at New York, Montreal at St. Louis, Philadelphia at Chicago, Los Angeles at Cincinnati, San Francisco at Houston (night), Atlanta at San Diego (night).

The players went on strike April 1 in a dispute with the owners over the amount of money owners would contribute to the players' pension plan. That wiped out the last four days of spring training and the walkout continued into the regular season, scheduled to start April 5. Today would have been the 10th day of the campaign.

The owners, whose annual contribution to the plan came to $5.4 million, offered an increase of $490,000 earmarked solely for the health care segment of the pension plan. The players were seeking a 17 per cent cost-of-living rise in retirement

Indiana Pacers can relax now for all of two days. Then all they have to do is play the Utah Stars in the American Basketball Association's West Division final series.

"This series has been awful tough." Leonard said after the Packers whipped the Denver Rockets 91-89 Thursday night in the West Division semifinal playoffs. "It's been tough both physically and mentally and I can't look ahead to Utah yet. Any time you play a seven-game series like this you've got to relax a little.

Genuine Mexican Food Soft Drinks & Carry Out had not offered a penny for retirement benefits, offered to allocate $400,000 from a huge interest surplus built up by the pension fund. The players lowered their demand from 17 per cent-approximately $918,000- to $600,000 and the two sides finally compromised on $500,000.

The first break came early this week when the owners, who

That left pay for made-up games as the only issue. At first, the owners wanted to reschedule all lost games with no salary. The players offered to give up one day's pay. The owners proposed to pay the players for games made up on open dates or as part of a separate admission doubleheader, but not for those rescheduled as part of one-admission twin bills.

Finally, the owners decided to start the season Saturday. Since the players are paid on the basis of a 182-day campaign rather than a 162-game season, they will each lose 10-182nds of their salary. For those earning the $13,500 minimum, it will amount to $740. For those at the major league average of $32,500, it's $1,780. For Hank Aaron, who pulls down a record $200,000 a year, it comes to a loss of $10,980.

The owners were losers, too. Some estimates place the loss at $5 million, including gate recipts, parking concessions and one canceled national television game.

"Nobody won," said commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who called the owners' meeting in Chicago. "The players suffered, the owners suffered, baseball suffered. I hope we've all learned a lesson. I will work with people in baseball for procedures to prevent this sort of thing in the future. Nobody wants it again."

"I think it's fair to say nobody ever wins in a strike situation," said Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association. "This one is no exception. We're not going to claim victory even though our objectives were achieved.

Meanwhile, it remained to be seen how the players would be

"Regardless of how the fans felt before, I think they'll be glad to see the players run onto the field Saturday," said Wes Parker of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Worsley was taken from the ice on a stretcher to Jewish Hospital in St. Louis. He suffered a slight concussion but X rays proved negative on a skull fracture.

Worsley was released from the hospital under the care of the North Stars' team physician, Dr. Charles Kelly, who said, "We'll probably not know until Saturday whether he's able to play in the final.'

Here is a real swing hand from a recent IMP match where the swing was the result of expert play as against good play.

Both tables reached four spades on identical bidding and the first trick was won by South's ace of hearts. Three rounds of trumps were taken. At this point the play diverged.

Declarer at table one led a heart. East won and returned a club. West won with the queen and played the jack of diamonds. Now South played two high diamonds and threw East in with a third diamond.

East led a second club and there was no way to keep West from scoring the setting trick with the king. South had been unlucky. Both clubs had to be wrong and in addition, East had to hold the long diamond. He had been unlucky but he had also missed the sure thing play. At the other table South cashed the ace and king of diamonds before getting off lead with a heart. East won and led a club to West but now West had no way to get off lead with a diamond. He actually led a third heart which allowed South to ruff in dummy and discard a club from his own hand.

This play would not have worked against a 4-1 break in diamonds but no play would work against that card combination and South had guarded against everything

The payments aren't very big, either.

Just a $94.00 cash down payment and $67.89 a month for 36 months.

(If you're not too good at math, that works out to a deferred payment price of $2,538.04, which includes a finance charge at an ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE of 12.83%.)

Along the way, you get a little financial help from the car.

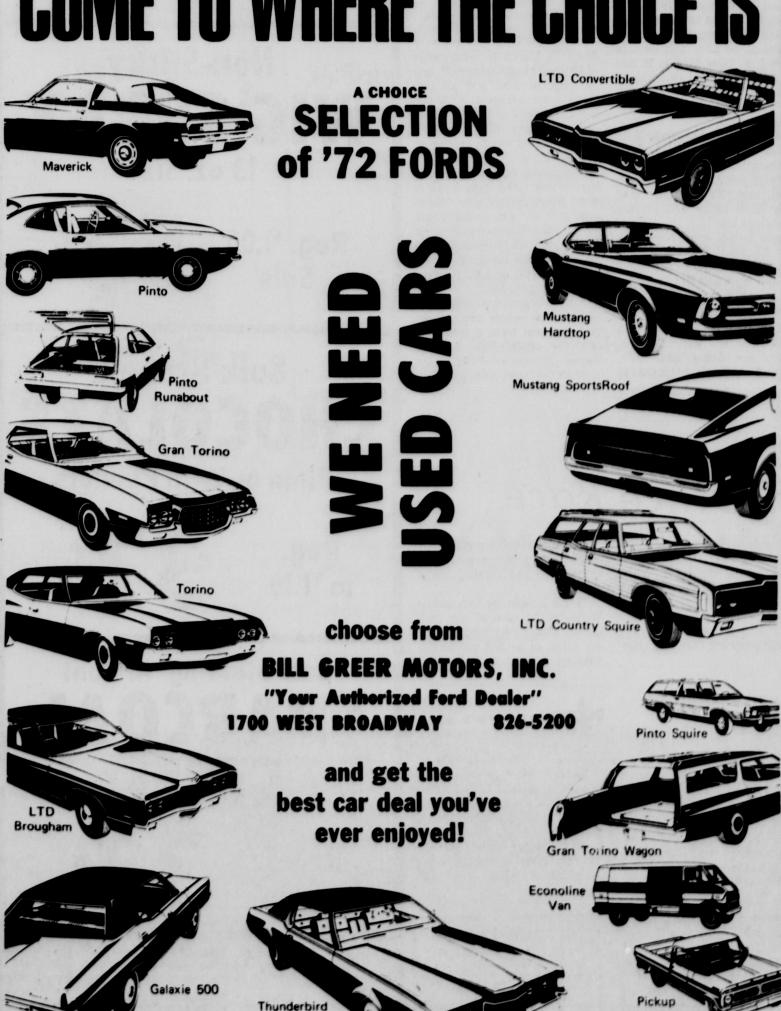

It uses about 5 pints of oil instead of 5 It doesn't need antifreeze because the engine's air-cooled. And although it does need gas, it doesn't need much of it lusually a gallon every 25

Of course, you might be the kind that likes to pay cash for everything. In that case, the cash price is $2,144.

Hawaii Elderly Concern

HONOLULU (AP) — Hoping to become the national leader in caring for its elderly, the Hawaii Legislature has passed a law setting up day care centers for senior citizens.

The legislature acted Wednesday after two such centers operated successfully for a year as pilot projects.

You'd never realize how difficult it is to take care of old people at home," said Mrs. Robert Nakamura, who begins each day by dropping off her 86-year-old father, Chuhei Hada, at the Kuakini Home Day Care Center before she goes to work.

"When my time comes, I hope there's a place like that for me," she added.

Hada is among 15 elderly persons who attend Kuakini, a center financed by an $84,000 federal model cities grant as a demonstration project. If it works in Honolulu, other cities may try it

At Kuakini, Hada and his companions-most of them between 70 and 80 years old-play games, watch television, take up ceramics or weaving, and even work on such community projects as addressing Easter seal envelopes.

Or, they may decide to get in a bus and go to a movie, a concert or the zoo; or even take a trip around the island of Oahu. They can visit each other in their homes and even do their own banking and other chores.

The whole idea is to make them feel free and independent," said Kuakini administrator Ralph Maeda. "If somebody says he wants a haircut, we'll take him down and get a haircut. He doesn't have to do anything if he doesn't want to."

Because many senior citizens would have to be placed in nursing homes or other costly institutions, often at state expense, legislators view day care centers as a money saver.

Betty Johnstone operates the other day care center, called Hale Ho'Ola'I, Hawaiian for house of contentment. The center is privately financed and senior citizens pay $150 a month to attend.

"It's just marvelous how much you can help elderly persons when you make a longterm commitment," said Mrs.

Condition of Pastures Shows Big Improvement

WASHINGTON (AP) - Livestock ranges and pastures generally were in much better condition on April 1 compared with a year earlier, particularly in the southwest where drought last spring depleted feed supplies, according to an Agriculture Department survey.

Nationally, based on reports from 30 major grazing states, the April 1 condition of ranges and pastures was 78 per cent, compared with 70 a year earlier and the 10-year average of 77 per cent. California was a major exception, the Crop Reporting Board said. Drought there dropped the state's index to 58 per cent, the lowest since 1961. A year ago the California grass situation was 73 per cent and the 10-year average 80, the report said.

In Texas, the livestock range and pasture condition was 76 per cent, compared with 46 a year earlier and the average of 71. Oklahoma, also hit severely by drought last year, was 80 per cent on April 1, compared with 66 a year earlier and the average of 76.

Other states, the April 1 pasture and range condition and the year-earlier rating includ-

New Jersey 73 per cent on April 1 and 82 a year earlier; Ohio 78 and 83: Indiana 88 and 85; Illinois 86 and 86; Missouri 79 and 80; Kansas 81 and 81; Delaware 75 and 81; Maryland 75 and 80; Virginia 86 and 81; West Virginia 79 and 73; North Carolina 85 and 82; South Carolina 83 and 75; Georgia 82 and 74; Florida 80 and 66; Kentucky 86 and 78; Tennessee 79 and 75; Alabama 78 and 68; Mississippi 75 and 70; Arkansas 82 and 74; Louisiana 80 and 72; Colorado 72 and 79; New Mexico 75 and 63; Arizona 70 and 69; Utah 83 and 83; Nevada 84 and 81; Washington 87 and 79; and Oregon 88 and 78.

Seven more states have been added to the survey but no comparative ratings for past years is available the department said. Those states and their April range and pasture conditions are:

Iowa 87 per cent; North Dakota 83; South Dakota 84; Nebraska 82; Montana 82; Idaho 94; and Wyoming 88.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The national milk-feed price ratio, a measure of how well dairy producers are doing financially, dropped again last month to 1.84 pounds, says the Agriculture Department.

That is the amount of feed equal in value to one pound of milk sold by producers to plants. The March ratio was down three points from 1.84 in February and 12 points lower than the record high of 1.96 last October, according to USDA

Two factors have been at work to cause the gradual downtrend. Average prices of all milk sold by producers were down in March to an average of $6.02 per hundredweight, and the cost of feed was up two cents to an average of $3.33 per hundredweight.

In February, milk averaged $6.10 and feed was $3.31, the report said.

Compared with a year earlier, when feed grain prices were much higher, the March ratio still was a more profitable signal for dairy producers. In March 1971 feed averaged $3.53 and milk sold for $5.83 which meant a ratio of 1.65 pounds. the department said.

Milk production in March totaled 10.44 billion pounds, up two per cent from a year earlier, the report said. Average output per cow was 852 pounds. a three per cent gain.

County Sheriff

Mother Serious on Office Race

MOUNTAIN GROVE, Mo. (AP) - Don't tell Mrs. Joyce Fodge she shouldn't be running for the Democratic nomination for sheriff of Wright County because it's not a job for a 40-year-old mother of 11 children.

"I'm completely serious about the race for sheriff," she said in her farm home eight miles east of Mountain Grove.

"I can use a .38 caliber revolver. I can save money by doing my own record-keeping. I know radio.

If elected she said the family will move to Hartville, 22 miles away, and she and the deputies she picks will attend the law enforcement course at Rolla.

A defeated candidate once said that in the central Ozarks area, "if you expect to win, you'd better be a native, a Baptist, a Republican and a man."

Besides being a woman and a Democrat, Mrs. Fodge is a

Mormon and a newcomer, the family moving to the area

'only" nine years ago. She also has been married 23 years to a man 33 years to senior—Tommie Fodge Sr.

she sets her head to. 'She's a cat skinner-drives a bulldozer like a man. I've seen her skid logs down off a mountain and drive a log truck. She did all those things when we lived out in Burns, Ore.." Fodge said.

"I was in law enforcement and I taught her how to shoot. I'm not worried about her handling the job," he said. "She knows how to handle herself and she knows how to treat people."

Mrs. Fodge doesn't think the children will prevent her from doing a good job. "I have only seven children left at home now. Of the seven left, the six eldest can pretty much take care of themselves.

"And they all take care of Heather, who's two."

She said she can't imagine not having any of her children. "I love them all and they're no trouble. We all take care of

Mrs. Fodge said she met her he said. "She can do anything aunt introduced us. We were married 20 days later."

The couple are active in the Wright County Democratic Club and Mrs. Fodge said because she does not expect opposition in the primary, she will not begin campaigning until late sum-

Report Policemen Leave Department

BELTON, Mo. (AP) -Spokesmen report that at least six and possibly eight of the 12man police department in Belton have resigned.

The spokesman said the resignations stem from differences between the men and police Chief John E. Blum.

Belton is a town of about 10,-000 population at the southeastern edge of Kansas City. Blum could not be reached for comment and other city officials would say only that a Tom was 50, but very young-"I got a wife that's a little bit looking for his age. He came to members and the police offi-

Apollo 16 Astronauts Rehearse

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) - With the start of their moon journey three days away, the Apollo 16 astronauts spent Thursday taking a refresher course in geology and rehearsing some scientific tasks they will perform in lunar orbit.

The countdown was on schedule for Sunday's blastoff at 12:54 p.m. EST, and the National Weather Service said the Saturn 5 booster rocket would get away in good weather, perhaps just ahead of afternoon thundershowers.

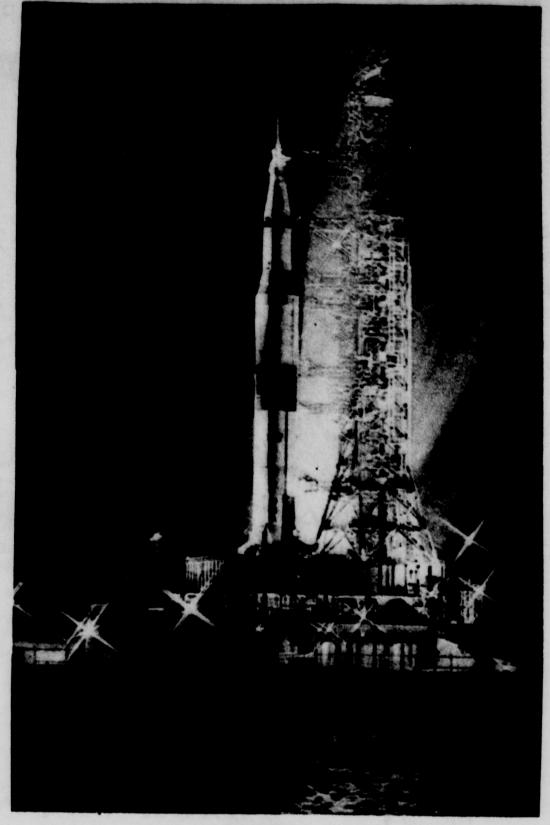

During their 13 months of training for this flight, John W. Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II devoted 35 to 40 per cent of their time to geology, particulary in volcanic terrain.

This was to equip them for man's first visit to the moon's mountainous highlands. where their prime objective is to find evidence that the moon once was torn by volcanic eruptions, just like the earth, some four billion years ago.

During their three trips outside the lunar lander, Young and Duke also hope to pick up samples of the moon's primordial crust from the Descartes region. That region is believed to have largely escaped meteors that heavily scarred the rest o the lunar surface.

Dr. Farouk el-Baz, a space agency geologist, held a two-hour session with the astronauts brushing up on some aspects of their training in which they studied meteorite-impact areas and volcanic fields in the western United States, Canada and

The weather forecast for launch time is partly cloudy skies, 15-mile-an-hour southwest winds and a temperature of 80.

Bombing Runs Carpet Battlefields Of An Loc

SAIGON (AP) — Wave after wave of U.S. B52 bombers battered the flaming rubber plantation of An Loc Friday in an unprecedented wave of attacks to save the provincial capital north of Saigon from falling completely into North Vietnamese hands. Government troops there are surrounded and in danger of being overrun. Nearly a score of the eightjet Stratofortresses dropped up to 500 tons of explosives on North Vietnamese troop concentrations only a mile west of An Loc. During the night, enemy gunners slammed 49 rockets and mortars into the provincial headquarters and its supply depots on the southern side of the city. The North Vietnamese hold the northern half. Field reports said less than 10 government troops were killed or wounded.

The Saigon command issued a communique Friday, claiming that 169 North Vietnamese troops wee killed in heavy fighting Thursday. The communique said 23 government troops were killed, 53 were wounded and six are

Butcher Bill Which Would Open Doors

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) - A Senate committee bored so many loopholes in its version of an open meetings bill Thursday it looked like Swiss cheese.

In its revised state, the bill said that all meetings of any public agency or board "shall be open to the public, except:

"(1) Sessions of grand and petit juries; "(2) Conference committees of the General Assembly;

"(3) All judicial proceedings; and "(4) Deliberations of all quasi-judicial and regulatory bodies in the performance of their regulatory or appellate duties, after the holding of open hearings. Presumably, Number 3 would lock the doors of all magistrate, circuit and appellate courts and perhaps even police It also would permit executive sessions behind closed doors for collective bargaining with employes, personnel matters, consideration of probation or parole applications, acquisition or sale of property, legal actions and pending legislation, if an open hearing was held first on the legislation.

The results of executive session votes would have to be made public afterward.

Meanwhile, a governmental reform group called the citizen's lobby announced it will launch its initiative campaign for an open meetings law that would require public meetings of all public agencies, boards, commissions or legislative com-

"There's a perimeter on the southern edge of town. That's about the only riendly place in this whole country up here," a U.S. pilot flying over the battleground radioed

Enemy troops and tanks, apparently at the price of heavy losses, braved all the bombs, bullets and shells that could be brought to bear on them and drove deep into the town, 60 miles north of Saigon. Field reports said they also captured a nearby airfield, making resupply and reinforcement of the 12,000 government troops, or what was left of them, extremely hazardous.

About 30,000 North Vietnamese troops are reported committed to the battle just south of the Cambodian border. Earlier they seized two nearby district headquarters.

For the North Vietnamese, the capture of a provincial capital would be the high

Fifteen miles to the south of An Loc, a 20,000-man armor and infantry rescue force remained stalled in the face of enemy fire. Commanders said they could not advance because of enemy resistance, a factor totally disregarded by the enemy just to the north. One U.S. adviser voiced impatience with the government commanders, saying: "I wonder why we stay bogged down here."

As the situation deteriorated hourly, some quarters in Saigon expressed belief the senior U.S. adviser in the region had underestimated the enemy, something the allies often have done in the past.

Maj. Gen. James F. Hollingsworth, senior adviser for the 3rd military region, which surrounds Saigon, said Tuesday after

Suspects Released On Bonds

William DeWayne Wiser, 29, Kansas City; Donnie Wray Wiser, 20, and Billy G. Wiser, 28, both of Raytown; were released late Wednesday on $3,500 bonds after being held in the Pettis County jail for felonious assault.

A fourth man, Clifton Thatcher, 28, Independence, remains in custody on the same charge in lieu of bond. Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said Thursday all the bonds were returnable May 4.

The charges against the Wisers and Thatcher stem from a beating incident at the Pettis County fire station about 7 p.m. Tuesday which sent Robert D. Sisemore. Route 4, fire chief, to Bothwell Hospital with multiple head injuries

The men were held briefly in the city jail before being transferred to the Pettis County jail after charges of felonious assault with intent to do great bodily harm had been filed.

According to police reports, the Wisers and Thatcher entered the fire station and started to attack Fred Sisemore, 710 East Fourth, the fire chief's brother. The fire chief apparently intervened and was beaten, kicked and cut on the head with a broken beer bottle.

Sisemore was released from the hospital

Effort To Balance Budget Is Blocked

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) $\dot{-}$ The Missouri Senate Thursday night squashed an attempt to slice \$3.2 million off the tentative budget recommendations for the University of Missouri and its four campuses at Columbia, Rolla, St. Louis and

The Senate rejected, 4-25, an amendment offered by Sen. Donald Manford, D-Kansas City, to reduce the Senate Appropriations Committee's recommendation of $95 million back to $91.8

Manford, who is chairman of the committee, said he acted on his own in offering the amendment, mostly as a last ditch effort to balance the budget.

"It's no longer a matter of fairness." Manford said in explaining his reluctance in offering the amendment, "It's a matter of dollars and cents."

The proposal was a direct result of the Senate action Wednesday night in restoring the full $35 million increment in state aid to public schools.

Manford said he also had an amendment to reduce state colleges and Lincoln University by about $1 million collectively if the Missouri University measure had passed.

In other action Thursday night, the Senate restored close to $400,000 cut earlier by the committee from House figures for the chest hospital at Mt. Vernon. During the afternoon sess on, Sen.

Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Coeur, tried but failed in an attempt to earmark $1 million for a proposed public defender Lt. Gov. William S. Morris ruled in favor of a point of order raised by Sen. Noel Cox, R-Ozark, challenging the procedure of funding a bill before it is enacted. Schechter, however, was making an effort to get the necessary funds included in the major appropriation bills since no other funding is expected this late in the legislative session. The public defender bill, to provide legal counsel for indigents accused of crimes, is one of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' legislative goals. The state Supreme Court said last fall it would not require Missouri attorneys to represent indigents without fee after Sept 1. The Senate defeated, 15-16, an amendment to give the Missouri Tourism Commission funds to hireadditional employes to staff planned information centers, but did approve money for the Public Service Commission to hire more help to handle increased workloads in rate cases

It also restored about $1 million cut from funds approved by the House for the state Conservation Department. Those funds come from the commission's own earnings on fishing and hunting licenses.

Sen. John A. Johnson, D-Affton, added language to the bill containing appropriations for the Law Enforcement Assistance Council that would give the legislature the power to channel federal grant funds if combined with state and

Johnson pointed out that the state may be required July 1 this year to contribute a percentage of the funds to support LEAC programs. Sen. Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann, said it could run into millions of dol-Hearnes vetoed similar language in appropriation measures last year.

Earlier, Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, tried but failed to abolish the Department of Community Affairs.

Blackwell wanted to wipe out the entire $1,190,769 approved for the department by the Senate Appropriations Committee. He called it "a dumping ground for patronage employes, worthless" and a "pure waste

The Senate disagreed. It killed his amendment on an 821 roll call vote.

The State Council of the Arts also survived an attempt by Sen. James A. Noland, R-Osage Beach, to wipe it out. His amendment to delete the entire appropriation of $607,000 was defeated, 2-32. Only Noland and Blackwell voted for Blackwell also failed in his effort to eliminate appropriations for the Council F State Governments, the Ozarks Regional Commission, the Southern Nuclear Board and the Mansion Preservation Advisory Commission, composed of the widows of former governors.

The Senate agreed with him, however, that $10,000 for the Commission of the Status of Women should be eliminated. The House had allowed $50,000.

Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, succeeded in increasing the allotment for the Division of Finance by $156,956 to a total of $1,311,204

He said the state was unable to examine 61 state banks last year because of a staff shortage. For every dollar spent on a bank examination, he said, banks pay the state an extra 15 cents and this money goes into general revenue.

He estimated his increase, approved 14-7would net the state an extra $22,500.

Sen. John W. Joynt, D-St. Louis, also succeeded in boosting an appropriation for the Missouri-St. Louis Metropolitan Airport Authority from $25,000 to $283,300. The legislature created the authority

For March

Jobless Insurance Payments Decrease

Unemployment insurance benefit payments made in March by the Sedalia office of the Missouri Division of Employment Security dropped to a new low for the year last month, with only $116,878 paid.

The Sedalia office serves residents in Pettis, Johnson and Morgan Counties.

The payments made in the three-county area last month compared to $129,374 paid during February and $141,540 in January. The least paid in recent months was $86,272

The Marshall and Clinton branch offices reported the same trend. In Marshall, for example unemployment benefit payments totalled $44,331 last month, compared to $47,540 in February.

In Clinton, payments during March came to $60,422 compared to $63,451 the month

Herman Julien, director of the Division of Employment Security, noted a statewide increase of 2.4 per cent in jobless payments over February. However, fewer claims were filed, and according to Julien. the difference is due to "an increase in the number of weeks compensated." Figures were also released for extended unemployment insurance benefit payments made to state residents who earned wage credits in Missouri, but now reside outside the state. The Sedalia office showed a decrease in this area, with $24,203 paid last month compared to $25,305 in February.

Extended benefit payments made in the Clinton office, however, increased from $13,488 in February to $15,717 last month. while the Marshall office said the payments it made soared from $7,163 in February to $11,130 last month.

These latter figures reflect a general state-wide increase in claims filed by Missourians for extended benefits. according to Julien.

Concerning the total number of unemployment benefit claims, Julien said the "seasonal decrease ... always comes with more moderate weather."

Juco Board Split A Dismaying Sign

Monday night's meeting of the State Fair Community College board of trustees, in which the board elections ended in deadlock. does not augur well for the future of the college.

If the board split along county lines that occurred Monday should persist, the six trustees will find themselves incapable of effective action.

The impasse developed when the name of Board Chairman William C. Hopkins was put up for reelection, prompting the nomination of a Benton County trustee and the subsequent 3-3 deadlock.

Personalities aside, the arguments for the board chairmanship to be held by a Sedalian are compelling at this point, we believe. The value of having a man "on the scene" to carry out the many duties of chairman, to meet and solve problems at the college as they arise, must be recognized.

The incumbent chairman has made the point that close supervision is required by his office during the college's formative years. This is a valid argument, and seems only what common sense would dictate.

It would be different if the present officers of the junior college board had proved themselves to be incapable of holding office. But just the opposite is true; the board leadership has steered the college along an ever-upward path, exhibiting a high degree of professionalism and dedication.

Thus far the board has ignored lesser loyalties, clinging to one overriding purpose: what is best for State Fair Community College.

It would indeed be tragic that if after such an auspicious beginning the board should become split. Then the well-being — and indeed the future even—of the College would be jeopardized.

The Other Academy Awards

WASHINGTON - While the Academy-Awards in Hollywood were getting all the attention this week, another award ceremony took place in the East on the same night honoring those people not eligible for Oscars but who, as far as the press was concerned, gave just as good performance if not better than those in the motion picture industry

Winning the award for the best performance based on an original story was the brilliant actor Clifford Irving, for the part he played in the never-to-be-forgotten "Autobiography of Howard Hughes." Mr. Irving received a unanimous vote of the jury for "most inspired role of the decade."

Accepting the award presented by the district attorney of New York City, Irving said, "I am very touched by this great honor; I can't tell you how much it means to me to win it. But this statuette and all it stands for does not belong to me alone. It belongs to all the wonderful people I worked with — my assistant, Richard Suskind, who helped me on the script my wife Edith who encouraged me from the start - the McGraw-Hill and Life people who believed in me when everyone else had their doubts - and, of course, Nina van Pallandt, who, when I was on location in Mexico, never left my side.

"But mostly I would like to thank a man who could not be with us tonight. This may come as a surprise to most of you, but I've never met him. Yet his name has been constantly on my lips for two years. Without him I would never have had the opportunity to play the role of his autobiographer.

"I would like to say to you, Howard Hughes, that all I am or ever hope to be I owe to you. If it weren't for your story, I would just be another unemployed actor on Ibiza. God bless you, Howard, wherever

The best actress of the year award was given to Dita Beard for her dramatic role in 'The Jack Anderson Papers." Playing the part of a salty woman lobbyist, Mrs. Beard won the hearts of America in the famous hospital scene when she was questioned by members of the Senate Judiciary

Because she could not attend the award ceremonies, her statuette was accepted for her by Harold Geneen, the chairman of the board of ITT, who financed the production

"Dita would like me to say for her," Mr. Geneen told the audience, "that she is very pleased to have been given this honor which comes to someone only once in a lifetime. We at ITT have been proud of the role we played in helping Dita win this statuette, and to show our gratitude I am happy to announce tonight that ITT is buying MGM, 20th Century-Fox, Universal Pictures, United Artists, Columbia Pictures and Walt Disney Productions. plus NBC, CBS, ABC and Radio Free Europe, providing, of course, that the Justice Department approves. When I spoke to Dita, she said, 'If I win, thank all those mothers for me."

For the best supporting role the winner was Sen. Edmund Muskie. He was up for the leading actor award, but after Wisconsin it was decided he fit better in the "supporting" category. Muskie was honored for his performance in "Abe Lincoln in New Hampshire," when he stood in front of Bill Loeb's Manchester Union Leader building and challenged the publisher to come out and fight.

Muskie was so moved by the award that he broke down and sobbed, which may have cost him the primaries in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and

Nixon Viet Strategy May Have Backfired

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - President Nixon's strategy for settling the Vietnam war before the November election may have backfired on the battlefield.

In his secret approaches to Hanoi, the President has pressed for an early peace. He has tried to convey the idea that he will be much tougher to deal with after the

As the White House views it, Hanoi hopes to use the anti-war ferment in the United States as political leverage to gain a peace settlement on Communist terms. Nixon, therefore, has emphasized American politics in his secret soundings.

He has tried to impress Hanoi that he is favored to win re-election, that he cannot run for another term and, therefore, that he will be free of political pressure after the election. Hints have been dropped in both Paris and Peking that Nixon may be willing to take bolder action against North Vietnam after the election.

The powerful North Vietnam drive across the Demilitarized Zone may have been a direct response to the President's arguments. Here's the picture as it has been pieced together in the White House:

The North Vietnam forces had been deployed along the Demilitarized Zone for years in a position for a direct invasion of the South. The U.S. intelligence community, however, never anticipated that Hanoi would gamble this home force in an open invasion.

The Communist buildup had been detected in the central highlands and along the Ho Chi-minh Trail complex. But the worst that was expected was a limited offensive against a few psychological

The secret intelligence estimates suggested that the North Vietnamese might score a few spectacular victories but couldn't keep up a protracted war in the South. In the end, the South Vietnamese were expected to hold.

Now, Gen. Creighton Abrams, the American commander in Vietnam, has warned Washington that the Communist offensive can be sustained for months. Apparently, a decision was made in Hanoi to commit the home forces to an open invasion of South Vietnam.

Just to Sweeten the Pot

There is a suspicion in the White House that Hanoi took the President at his word that he would be tougher after the election. With this in mind, the North Vietnamese may have launched the invasion to strengthen their hand before sitting down to serious, pre-election bargaining.

One thing is certain. Hanoi is throwing into the invasion troops, tanks, artillery and antiaircraft guns that previously had been held in reserve for the protection of North Vietnam. This unexpected assault across the Demilitarized Zone has completely upset our military calculations.

Footnote: The timing of the invasion also caught the American high command by surprise. General Abrams was expecting a limited offensive in July or August. He was in Bangkok visiting his family when the North Vietnamese struck. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker was also out of the country visiting his wife, Carol Laise, in Katmandu where she is the U.S. ambassador to Nepal.

So worried is the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) over congressional investigation of the housing mortage scandal that it has warned its regional officers to report all signs of the "Alert Notice," begins a wire to HUD's Reno office telling of the probe by Rep. John Monagan, D-Conn. "The Monagan group might be in your area in the near future. It is essential that any word of the group activity be reported directly" to HUD in Washington.

A HUD memo to Seattle regional staffers says: "Please notify me personally by telephone if you receive any contact from these people or any information about their visiting your area." It is signed by regional administrator Oscar Pederson.

At the heart of this panic over Monagan's probe are reports from city after city that federal mortages have been used as milch cows for greedy real estate men. sometimes with the collusion of HUD employes. Monagan plans hearings shortly on reports of bribes, kickbacks and payoffs in the housing mortgage industry.

Sen. Jim Buckley, the New York conservative, has family holdings potentially worth millions which ride on swift development of the far northern oil fields of Alaska and Canada.

As a member of the powerful Senate Interior Committee, the New Yorker wields a club over the Interior Department which is now deciding whether to approve a Trans-Alaska pipeline. Last week, Buckley swung the club, but not on behalf of his oil interests.

Instead, in a private letter to Interior Secretary Rogers Morton, Buckley eloquently pleaded for delay in the name of Alaska's "untouched wilderness." Buckley asked for additional hearings on whether Canada and the United States cannot get together on a pipe-line that will carry oil but not damage the environment.

* * * A group of students, who have been crusading against false advertising, has now asked one federal agency to label another as a false advertiser.

The George Washington University law students call themselves LABEL, an acronym for "Law Students Association for Buyers' Education and Labeling." They tried to force the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) to require food and drink makers to tell what's in all products.

Frustrated by the FDA, LABEL has now turned to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). In a petition with the FTC, LABEL says FDA's claims that products are already labeled properly is itself "false advertising."

Press Veteran Sees Anti-Nixon Bias

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON - James Keogh's new book, "President Nixon and the Press." is scheduled for publication this weekend. The next wind that blows from Washington will bring the honing sound of steel on stone. Keogh has carved up his onetime brothers. They will soon be slicing back.

Keogh's credentials as a critic of the press go back to 1938, when he left Creighton University to join the Omaha World-Herald. After 13 years he moved on to New York s a writer on national ffairs for Time. He was the magazine's executive editor when he left in 1968 to begin three years in the White House as a research and writing aide to

In defending the President he served, Keagh risks the old brush-off as a thoroughly professional job.

He charges major elements of the American press, including the TV networks, with a deliberate, pervasive and persistent bias against the Nixon administration. He acknowledges that every president has felt himself mistreated by the press, but he insists that in the case of Nixon, the mistreatment has been so gross and so constant as to reflect upon the integrity of the press itself.

Keogh's pattern of unfairness is woven of such major issues as Vietnam and of such trivial matters as the Rumsfeld private bath. This latter incident involved Jack Anderson's charge on Sept. 22, 1969, that anti-poverty czar Donald Rumsfeld had diverted money from the poor in order to give his executive suite a "more luxurious look," including "the ultimate in executive status symbols: A private bathroom." Keogh denounces the Anderson column as "a total fabrication, utterly and completely involving Vanderbilt's Chancellor Alexander Heard and Howard University's President James Cheek. They were said to have warned Nixon in a private meeting with him that campus unrest had reached such critical level that numerous colleges might not even be able to open in the fall: Berkeley, they purportedly told the President, was already dead, and Columbia University dying.

Keogh, who had sat in on the meeting, says flatly that the network account "was just not true." Dr. Heard himself denounced the story as "totally unfounded" and "completely inaccurate." But it was not until August 25, seven weeks later, that NBC's John Chancellor delivered himself of two sentences agreeing that "part of what we reported was based on misinformation."

Whatever damage the press may have inflicted on Nixon, in Keogh's view the press has done much greater damage to itself. In his closing pages, Keogh dwells soberly upon the "lack of confidence," in ips, was the incident Kenneth Clark's phrase, that "more than that troubles Keogh. All of us who count

"history will not let American journalism escape its large share of the responsibility.

His argument here is that as the 1970s began, many persons "were beginning to perceive that they were too often getting a distorted view of current history from those who were supposed to be their best sources of information." Keogh is convinced that many top reporters have lost sight of their first duty, which is simply "to tell the people what is going on - not to sell a point of view, but to inform and

The indictment, sad to say, has much validity. One of the things that are going on right now is an outright Communist invasion of Laos, Cambodia, and South Vietnam. This warfare is conventional warfare, not to be explained as the acts of mere guerrillas or revolutionaries. But it is part of the liberals' uncontainable contempt for South Vietnam rarely to see the enemy troops either as Communists of as invaders. This is the blinkered vision

Southeast Asia, 17 Senate and 34 House members have expressed concern to President Nixon over what they said "appears to be a major re-escalation of U.S. involvement in the war."

"If news reports are accurate, our country is now assembling in Southeast Asia one of the largest air armadas in military history," the Members of Congress for Peace Through Law told Nixon.

"The use of such a force would certainly add not only to the destruction our bombing has already brought to the people and land of Indochina, but also to the
